Code of Conduct

The Scouts agreed, at a recent Troop Forum, that each of them should conduct their behaviour in line with the code of conduct here:

DO	Help other Scouts
DO	Listen to instructions
DO	Make sure everybody's opinion is heard
DO	Respect other Scouts' space
DO	Take part in activities
DO	Be friendly and trustworthy
DO	Try your best
DO	Always tell the truth
DON'T	Harm others physically, accidentally or on purpose
DON'T	Swear or use foul language
DON'T	Bully others
DON'T	Use phones at Scouts
DON'T	Vandalise property or damage equipment
DON'T	Disobey instructions
DON'T	Waste time

The Scouts recognised that mobile phones are distracting, can be seen as rude, and can be dangerous when used maliciously. Sometimes Scouts need to bring a phone for use after the meeting. They suggested that they should be placed in a box with a leader to be kept safe during the meeting.

As well as having consistent good behaviour rewarded with treats, and additional recognition and responsibility, they told their leaders that they expected poor behaviour to be dealt with through a variety of sanctions, depending on how poor the behaviour was.

TIME OUT
If a leader thinks that somebody is misbehaving a little they can give them five minutes time out.

YELLOW CARD 1
For more serious misbehaviour, for the first offence, they should be given a Yellow Card. This will mean a talk with parents.

YELLOW CARD 2
A second Yellow Card within a half-term is very poor. The Scout may very well miss out on the next meeting / activity, as well as another talk with parents.

RED CARD 1
Very serious misbehaviour can mean a Red Card. This includes violence, bullying, racism, and endangering others. Repeated misbehaviour following a second Yellow Card will also get a Red Card. This card means you are missing the next meetings until a plan is put in place between the leaders and your parents.

RED CARD 2
Getting a second Red Card within three months of the first will result in you being permanently excluded from the Scout Troop. Your parents will be invited to a meeting to discuss this before a final decision is made.

All Saints Scout Troop part of 1st Clayton-le-Moors Scout Group
Group Lead Volunteer David Gerrard
All Saints Scouts Volunteer Team Leader Nina Moffett
07535 627 112 AllSaintsScouts@1stClaytonScouts.uk /1stClaytonScouts